A Session on National Worrier

“Maharani Abbakka Devi”

A session on National Worrier Maharani Abbakka Devi was organized on 20th September 2025 at Vidyabharti Trust College of MCA (MCA, MBA & IMSc.IT), Umrakh, Bardoli. The event aimed to inspire students by revisiting the legacy of Maharani Abbakka Devi, the first Tuluva Queen of Ullal, who is remembered for her indomitable spirit and unyielding resistance against colonial powers.

The session was graced by Dr. Kinjal Patel, a assistant professor at Uka Tarsadiya University who delivered an inspirational talk highlighting the bravery, leadership, and lifelong struggle of Maharani Abbakka against the Portuguese and later against the growing dominance of the British during the colonial era. Dr. Patel emphasized how Maharani Abbakka’s courage, strategic acumen, and patriotism made her one of the earliest women warriors in Indian history to challenge foreign powers.

The talk motivated the students to draw lessons from her life—particularly her resilience, commitment to sovereignty, and fearless leadership. Dr. Patel also stressed the importance of remembering such forgotten heroes who played a crucial role in India’s resistance movements long before the mainstream freedom struggle.

The session concluded with an interactive discussion, where students expressed their admiration and reflected on how Maharani Abbakka Devi's life continues to serve as an example of courage, selflessness, and devotion to the nation.

The program was successful in instilling patriotic fervor among the students and in paying tribute to one of India's unsung heroines.
